“ Senor Alfonso, I remember the first day that Nancy brought me to your home and your family. Especially when Nancy had introduced me to you as her Husband... You had gotten up from your bedroom with determination in your eyes to see this man that Nancy had pulled out of thin air... I'll never forget the look when you finally realized several days later just how long my hair was... All Nancy could do was laugh. At least you seemingly approved for everytime when I came over to visit or come home from work, you always smiled at the site of me and this told me that you indeed had liked me..Saddly when your daughter and I split up, I lost more than a wife, I lost a Mom and a Father too...Actually, the only family I have had in a long time.... Two years later, your Nancy sought me out and we became reunited again, however, you were ready to lay down and call life quits...Deservingly, it was your time and you had done your duty as a father and husband in bringing up your family diligently like a man... Your passing was time and it also placed me in a position where the promised that I had made to your Daughter had to be fulfilled. That promise was made when Nancy in a teary state had asked me if I would still be there when her parents were gone...I fulfilled part of this promise the day we laid you to rest...I was there for Nancy and for your wife Clelia too..I promissed you Alfonso that I would look after Nancy which she does not let happen too easily... Though she may be difficult as she can be, I still love her and I will be there as promised... You can rest assured that she will not be left alone and uncared for....If you hadn't brought Nancy into this world, I would have never had the chance opportunity to know Nancy and fall in lover with her...For this Senor Alfonso, you hold a reserved place in my heart for eternity just as Nancy does, and your wife and her Mom, Clelia Calderon... You raised a beautiful family Senor Calderon, and I will do what it takes to watch over them because everybody needs a little extra help...Rest peacefully old man, you are and will be missed very much.... love and respect, your once upon a time son in law, Clinton
